ORDER

16 Plaintiffs CWT Canada II Limited Partnership and Resource Recovery Corporation 17 (collectively “CWT”) sued Defendants Elizabeth J. Danzik (“Elizabeth”), Danzik Applied 18 Sciences, LLC (“DAS”), Tony Ker (“Ker”), and Richard Carrigan (“Carrigan”) for various 19 claims related to approximately $5 million in unpaid tax credits. Doc. 1; Bridges Doc. 56.<sup>1</sup> 20 CWT, Ker, Carrigan, and Elizabeth move for summary judgment. Docs. 156; 165. Ker 21 and Carrigan also move to strike a CWT sur-reply. Doc. 175. The motions are fully 22 briefed, and oral arguments will not aide the Court’s decision. LR Civ. 7.2(f); Fed. R. Civ.
23 P. 78(b). For the following reasons, the Court will deny CWT’s motion in part and grant

2 part, and grant Ker and Carrigan’s motion to strike.

3 I. Background.

4 A. The Parties and the Agreement.

5 Dennis Danzik (“Danzik”) was the chief executive officer of RDX Technologies, 6 Corp. (“RDX”), a now-defunct corporation. Doc. 1 ¶1. Danzik also owns DAS. Bridges 7 Doc. 1 ¶ 2. Dennis and his spouse, Elizabeth, own Deja II, LLC (“Deja”). Doc. 1 ¶ 1.
8 CWT entered into a transaction to sell their company, Changing World Technologies, L.P.
9 (“Changing World”), to RDX. Bridges Doc. 1 ¶ 2. CWT also entered into a transaction to 10 purchase RDX stock. Id. ¶ 32. Ker was the chairman of the RDX board, and Carrigan was 11 a board member. Id. ¶ 5.

12 In 2013, CWT and RDX entered into a Uniform Purchase Agreement (the “UPA”), 13 for Changing World. Id. ¶ 22. Under the UPA, RDX signed two promissory notes totaling 14 $20 million and provided stock to CWT. Id. ¶ 32. Changing World was the holding 15 company and sole member of Renewable Environmental Solutions, LLC (“RES”), which 16 manufactured and sold renewable diesel fuel. Id. Under a federal subsidy program, RES 17 was eligible for tax credits for every gallon of diesel fuel produced. Id. RES owed no 18 taxes because it had no profit, and therefore it received a tax credit payment every year.
19 Id. In 2011, the subsidy program expired and then was renewed retroactively in 2013. Id.
20 ¶ 24. Accordingly, in 2013 or 2014 RES could request millions of tax credits earned in 21 2012. Id. Under the UPA, “one hundred percent of all amounts received by [RDX] as a 22 result of the reinstatement of any Federal or state tax credit relating to the period prior to 23 and including December 21, 2012 [would] be allocated and distributed to [CWT].” 24 Doc. 158-1 (0607) § 2.3.

25 Prior to selling Changing World to RDX, CWT invited Gem Holdco, LLC (“GEM”) 26 to be a limited partner with the CWT parties. Id. GEM wanted to invest enough to own 27 sixty percent of CWT, but it planned to resell the ownership to RDX. Id. By March 2013, 28 CWT realized that GEM was not complying with its contractual obligations to fund the

1 company and obtain its sixty percent interest. As a result, CWT contracted with RDX 2 separately to sell Changing World. Id. ¶ 31.

3 B. The New York Action.

4 GEM filed an action in New York against CWT for failing to sell it sixty percent of 5 Changing World, and CWT joined Danzik and RDX as defendants. Id. ¶ 39. By August 6 2014, relations between CWT, Danzik, and RDX began to sour because RDX refused to 7 pay the purchase price for Changing World, to remit the tax credits to CWT, and to provide 8 $1 million in stock. Id. ¶ 40.

9 Danzik argued that CWT defrauded RDX because the RES refining process was not 10 the expected quality. Id. ¶¶ 41-42. Danzik further argued that he was holding the tax credit 11 funds for the U.S. government because RES did not produce renewable diesel to be eligible 12 for the tax credit. Id. ¶ 44. In 2015, CWT filed crossclaims in the New York action against 13 Danzik and RDX for the misappropriation of the tax credits and other breaches of the UPA.
14 Id. ¶ 48; Dennis Doc. 60-12 at 30.

15 In December 2015, CWT moved for a preliminary injunction to prohibit Danzik and 16 RDX from using or transferring the RES tax credit funds and to require them to deposit the 17 funds into a separate trust account. Dennis Doc. 60-15. The New York Court granted 18 CWT's motion. Dennis Doc. 60-16. Justice Kornreich explained that there was "no 19 question of fact that the [] tax credits d[id] not belong to [Danzik and RDX]. The money 20 either belong[ed] to the CWT parties or the federal government. . . . [R]egardless of the 21 outcome of this litigation, [Danzik and RDX] w[ould] not keep the money." Id. at 6.

22 At a hearing on November 4, 2015, Justice Kornreich granted a motion to strike 23 Danzik and RDX's defenses. See Dennis Doc. 60-19 at 3-4 ("I am striking Mr. Danzik and 24 RDX's, any kind of response they have to [the crossclaim]. There is no answer to that, no 25 opposition to that. There is going to be a default on that if there is a motion for a default 26 judgment."). This ruling was based on Danzik and RDX's repeated refusals to comply 27 with court orders to produce certain bank records and ESI during discovery. Id. at 3-5.

1           On June 3, 2016, after holding a contempt hearing, Justice Kornreich found Danzik
2 and RDX in civil and criminal contempt for violating the attachment order and a later-3 granted temporary restraining order requiring Danzik and RDX to set aside the tax credit 4 funds. Dennis Doc. 60-22. Justice Kornreich proceeded to the merits and found that there 5 was “no question that [Danzik and RDX] willfully violated the Attachment Order and the 6 TRO.” Id. at 9.

7           In August 2016, Justice Kornreich granted CWT’s unopposed motion for default 8 judgment against Danzik and RDX on their crossclaims. Dennis Doc. 60-2.<sup>2</sup> In assessing 9 whether CWT had a viable cause of action against Danzik and RDX for purposes of 10 entering default judgment, Justice Kornreich explained that the breach of trust crossclaim 11 “concerns [Danzik and RDX’s] breach of their obligation to hold the tax credits in 12 constructive trust for [CWTs], as required by the UPA.” Id. at 5-6. She concluded that 13 Defendants’ “right to the tax credits under the UPA is clear, and any defense RDX may 14 have had has been stricken.” Id. at 6. A final judgment was entered the following month 15 against Danzik and RDX in the amount of $7,033,491.13. Dennis Doc. 60-3.

16           C.     The Current Litigation.

17           On March 4, 2016, CWT sued Elizabeth and Deja, alleging that Elizabeth received 18 $730,000 that Danzik stole from CWT, and that she defrauded CWT in a separate RDX 19 stock transaction. See Doc. 1 ¶ 1. Next, CWT sued DAS, Carrigan, and Ker, alleging that 20 they knew of and aided in Danzik’s fraudulent theft scheme. Bridges Doc. 1. Ker filed a 21 counterclaim to that suit. See Bridges Doc. 81. Finally, Danzik and RDX sued CWT and 22 various parties related to CWT, alleging that they defrauded Danzik into purchasing 23 Changing World. Dennis Doc. 1. On September 27, 2017, the Court granted the parties’ 24 motion to consolidate these actions and directed the parties to make subsequent filings in 25

26
27           <sup>2</sup> The motion for default was originally filed in November 2015, but Judge 28 Kornreich said she was delayed in deciding the motion because of “[Plaintiffs’] dilatory tactics . . . , such as filing for bankruptcy on the eve of oral argument . . . and the continuation of the contempt hearing.” Dennis Doc. 60-2 at 4.

1 the Elizabeth Action. See Doc. 96. The Court granted motions to dismiss Ker’s abuse of 2 process counterclaim and the Dennis Action. See Doc. 119.

3 The remaining claims include fraud against Carrigan and Ker (Bridges Doc. 56 4 ¶¶ 95-100); conversion against DAS (id. ¶¶ 101-11); tortious interference with contractual 5 relations against Carrigan and Ker (id. ¶¶ 112-19); breach of trust against Carrigan and Ker 6 (id. ¶¶ 120-30); breach of fiduciary duty against Carrigan and Ker (id. ¶¶ 131-39); aiding 7 and abetting fraud, conversion, breach of trust/misappropriation of trust assets and breach 8 of fiduciary duty against DAS, Bridges, Carrigan, and Ker (id. ¶¶ 140-51); unjust 9 enrichment and restitution against DAS (id. ¶¶ 152-57); constructive trust against DAS (id.
10 ¶¶ 158-62); fraudulent transfers under A.R.S. § 44-1004(A)(1) against DAS (id. ¶¶ 163-
11 68); fraudulent transfers under A.R.S. § 44-1004(A)(2) against DAS (id. ¶¶ 169-75); 12 fraudulent transfers under A.R.S. § 44-1005 against DAS (id. ¶¶ 176-82); and common law
13 conspiracy to commit fraudulent transfers against DAS, Carrigan, and Ker (id. ¶¶ 183-87).<sup>3</sup> 14 Claims for defamation under Arizona and Canadian law remain in Ker’s second amended 15 counterclaim against CWT. See Doc. 99 ¶¶ 63-76.

16 In the Elizabeth Action, the remaining claims include fraud against Elizabeth and 17 Deja (Doc. 1 ¶¶ 95-109); conversion against Elizabeth and Deja (id. ¶¶ 110-15); money 18 had and received against Elizabeth and Deja (id. ¶¶ 116-22); breach of contract against 19 Deja (id. ¶¶ 123-28); conversion of the tax credits against Elizabeth (id. ¶¶ 129-38); money 20 had and received related to the tax credits against Elizabeth (id. ¶¶ 139-45); unjust 21 enrichment and restitution against Elizabeth and Deja (id. ¶¶ 146-51); unjust enrichment 22 and restitution against Elisabeth (id. ¶¶ 152-57); constructive trust against Elizabeth and 23 Deja (id. ¶¶ 158-62); and accounting against Elizabeth and Deja (id. ¶¶ 163-67).

24 II. Legal Standard.

25 A party seeking summary judgment “bears the initial responsibility of informing the 26 district court of the basis for its motion and identifying those portions of [the record] which

27
28 <sup>3</sup> All remaining claims are from the Second Amended Complaint. The Second Amended Complaint includes claims against Kevin Bridges, but all parties stipulated to his dismissal. See Bridges Doc. 65.

1 it believes demonstrate the absence of a genuine issue of material fact.” Celotex Corp. v.
2 Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). Summary judgment is appropriate if the evidence, 3 viewed in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party, shows “that there is no genuine 4 dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” 5 Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). Summary judgment is also appropriate against a party who “fails to 6 make a showing sufficient to establish the existence of an element essential to that party’s 7 case, and on which that party will bear the burden of proof at trial.” Celotex, 477 U.S. at 8 322. Only disputes over facts that might affect the outcome of the suit will preclude 9 summary judgment, and the disputed evidence must be “such that a reasonable jury could 10 return a verdict for the nonmoving party.” Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 11 248 (1986).

12 III. Discussion.

13 A. CWT’s Motion.

14 CWT moved for summary judgment on the conversion claim against Ker and 15 Carrigan, on the issue of whether Ker and Carrigan could relitigate issues decided in the 16 New York action, and on Ker’s defamation counterclaims. See Doc. 156.

17 1. Conversion Claim.

18 a. Notice of Conversion Claim Against Ker and Carrigan.

19 CWT argues that summary judgment should be granted against Ker and Carrigan 20 for conversion, but Ker and Carrigan argue that CWT never pled a conversion claim against 21 them. Docs. 156 at 11; 165 at 9. Ker and Carrigan argue that the only count related to 22 their conversion of the tax credits is a claim for aiding and abetting conversion. Doc. 165; 23 see also Bridges Doc. 56 ¶¶ 140-51.

24 Under the liberal rules of pleading, a plaintiff need only provide a “short and plain 25 statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a).
26 A pleading must give fair notice of the claims against each Defendant. See Rynn v. McKay, 27 No. CV-18-00414-PHX-JJT, 2018 WL 3926666, at *2 (D. Ariz. Aug. 16, 2018) (group 28 pleading fails to comply with Rule 8(a)(2) because it does not give fair notice of the claims

1 against each defendant with the requisite specificity). Plaintiffs' complaint need not 2 contain a specific legal theory so long as the complaint, fairly read, contains the factual
3 basis to provide notice of the absent claim. See Pickern v. Pier 1 Imports (U.S.), Inc., 457 4 F.3d 963, 968 (9th Cir. 2006) (affirming summary judgment where the complaint did not 5 give fair notice of the factual basis for a claim raised for first time in opposition to summary 6 judgment); Am. Timber & Trading Co. v. First Nat'l Bank of Or., 690 F.2d 781, 786 (9th 7 Cir. 1982) ("A party need not plead specific legal theories in the complaint, so long as the 8 other side receives notice as to what is at issue in the case.").

9 CWT's second amended complaint alleges conversion as its second cause of action 10 against DAS. Bridges Doc. 56 ¶¶ 101-11. CWT first alleges that Danzik and RDX 11 received specific sums of money in an aggregate amount of about $ 6 million in the form 12 of tax credit payments from the United States Treasury. Id. ¶ 102. CWT next alleges that 13 "Danzik, acting in concert with Bridges, Carrigan, Ker and other RDX insiders, diverted 14 the funds to accounts in the name of DAS and/or to other accounts that Danzik controlled." 15 Id. ¶ 103. The complaint then states that DAS received identified funds that rightly belong 16 to the CWT parties, the CWT parties have a possessory interest to these funds that is 17 superior to that of DAS, DAS failed to return the tax credit funds and has "exercised 18 dominion of them for its own purpose, and DAS therefore converted the tax credits. Id.
19 ¶ 101-07. In its sixth cause of action, CWT alleges that Carrigan and Ker are liable for 20 aiding and abetting Danzik and RDX's conversion of the credits. Id. ¶ 141.

21 CDX's complaint does not assert a conversion claim against Ker and Carrigan. The 22 eleven factual allegations associated with the conversion claim mainly relate to DAS's 23 actions and liability in relation to the tax credits. Specifically, the complaint alleges that 24 "DAS has unlawfully converted the Tax Credits funds to its own use" (Bridges doc. 56 25 ¶ 107), and "DAS is liable for conversion in an amount to be determined at trial" (id. ¶ 111).
26 The only reference to Ker and Carrigan states that "Danzik, acting in concert with Carrigan 27 and Ker . . . diverted the funds to accounts in the name of DAS." Id. ¶ 103. These 28 allegations do not support a claim for conversion against Carrigan and Kerr. See Bodley v.

1 Macayo Rests., LLC, 546 F. Supp. 2d 696, 698 n.2 (D. Ariz. 2008) (new factual theories in 2 response to summary judgment do not preclude summary judgment); Kreiger v.
3 Nationwide Mut. Ins., No. CV11-01059-PHX-DGC, 2012 WL 1029526, at *5 (D. Ariz.
4 March 27, 2012) (where the complaint does not mention the facts the legal theory rests on 5 it fails to give adequate notice to the parties); Stokes v. Arpaio, No. CV 04-2845-PHX-6 DGC (MEA), 2008 WL 3286175, at * 6 (D. Ariz. Aug.7, 2008) (“Plaintiff’s new 7 allegations [challenging a different policy] cannot properly be construed as falling within 8 the First Amended Complaint”).

9 CWT argues that the parties have been on notice of the conversion claim since the 10 beginning of the case because Ker and Carrigan’s possible conversion came up during 11 discovery and because CWT asserted a claim for breach of fiduciary duty, which put them 12 on notice that they could be held liable regardless of their tortious intent. See Doc. 170 at 13 9-10. CWT cites to several documents outside of the complaint that demonstrate Carrigan 14 and Ker knew about the conversion claim. See id. (citing Bridges Doc. 54 at 11 (stating 15 that Carrigan, as a corporate director, was liable for the theft of the tax credits); Bridges 16 Doc. 70 at 5 (stating that Danzik gave testimony that Carrigan was an accomplice to the 17 theft); Doc. 136 at 7 (stating “Ker and Carrigan are liable because they caused RDX to 18 deposit and use the CWT Parties’ tax credits”). Further, CWT points to Ker and Carrigan’s 19 deposition questioning about an auditor’s report that noted lack of oversight of closely 20 related transactions. Doc. 170 at 10

21 CWT’s arguments are unavailing. The test for notice is based primarily on the 22 complaint. CWT cites Sagana v. Tenorio, 384 F.3d 731 (9th Cir. 2004), for the proposition 23 that a party can be put on notice of a claim if the other party seeks discovery on that issue.
24 See Doc. 170 at 10. But Sagana addressed not only a complaint but an accompanying 25 settlement agreement. Indeed, the Ninth Circuit looked to the text of the settlement 26 agreement to determine whether the plaintiff’s right to pursue a particular claim had been 27 preserved. The court of appeals found the factual basis for the claim clearly set out in the 28 settlement agreement and also found that the complaint contained enough facts to support

1 the claim. 384 F.3d at 736. As noted above, the conversion claim in CWT's complaint 2 focuses on DAS and contains few facts alleging conversion by Ker and Carrigan.

3 Nor is the Court persuaded that the cited documents and depositions could only be 4 construed as relating to a conversion claim against Ker and Carrigan. The statements could 5 also be used to support an aiding and abetting claim, or any of the other eleven causes of 6 action in CWT's complaint. Moreover, a claim for breach of fiduciary duties does not 7 necessarily indicate that CWT intended to sue Ker and Carrigan for conversion. The Court 8 will not grant summary judgment in favor of CWT on a conversion theory against Ker and 9 Carrigan.

10 b. CWT's Request to Amend.

11 In the alternative, CWT asks that the Court consider CWT's complaint amended to 12 conform with evidence presented during summary judgment pursuant to Federal Rule 13 15(b). Doc. 170 at 11. The Court will deny this request because CWT has not shown good 14 cause under Rule 16(b).<sup>4</sup>

15 Once a district court enters a scheduling order that sets a deadline for amending 16 pleadings and the deadline passes, Rule 16 controls. See Johnson v. Mammoth Recreations, 17 Inc., 975 F.2d 604, 607-08 (9th Cir. 1992). A party seeking leave to amend after a Rule 16 18 deadline passes must show good cause to extend the deadline. Fed. R. Civ. P. 16(b)(4); 19 see also id. (citing Forstmann v. Culp, 114 F.R.D. 83, 85 (M.D.N.C. 1987)). Good cause 20 exists when a deadline "cannot reasonably be met despite the diligence of the party seeking 21 the extension." Fed. R. Civ. P. 16 Advisory Comm.'s Notes (1983 Am.). Where the party 22 has not been diligent, the inquiry ends, and the motion is denied. Zivkovic v. S. Cal. Edison 23 Co., 302 F.3d 1080, 1087 (9th Cir. 2002).

24 The Court issued a Rule 16 scheduling order that set a deadline for amending 25 pleadings 60 days from January 20, 2017. See Doc. 69. CWT seeks to amend its complaint 26

27 <sup>4</sup> If the Court will not consider the complaint amended, CWT asks to dismiss the 28 summary judgment motion without prejudice so that it may amend its complaint. Doc. 170 at 11. The Court will deny this request because CWT has not shown good cause as discussed above.

1 some 18 months after the deadline has passed. CWT argues that good cause exists because 2 it did not discover the Arizona cases defining the elements of primary liability for 3 conversion by a director until after the complaint was filed, and Ker and Carrigan did not 4 previously raise any issues with CWT's pursuit of a claim for conversion. See Doc. 170 at 5 12.

6 By its own account, CWT knew of the actions of Ker and Carrigan and considered 7 them liable for conversion before initiating discovery. Through reasonable diligence, CWT 8 could have researched the relevant Arizona law and asserted a conversion claim within the 9 Court's deadline. Because CWT has not shown that it was unable to meet the deadline 10 through reasonable diligence, it has not shown good cause for extending the deadline.
11 CWT's argument that Ker and Carrigan failed to object to the conversion claim reverses 12 the Rule 16 burden.

13 CWT argues that Rule 15(b) allows amendment of pleadings during summary 14 judgment without requiring a Rule 16(b)(4) good cause showing. In support, CWT cites 15 Desertrain v. City of Los Angeles, 754 F.3d 1147 (9th Cir. 2014). But the court of appeals 16 in Desertrain addressed amendment under Rule 15(b) only. The court never stated whether 17 the amendment was sought after a deadline in a Rule 16 case management order, and never 18 mentioned longstanding Ninth Circuit precedent on Rule 16 such as Johnson and Zivkovic.
19 See also In re W. States Wholesale Nat. Gas Antitrust Litig., 715 F.3d 716, 737 (9th Cir.
20 2013) (following Johnson and applying Rule 16's good cause standard rather than Rule 21 15's more liberal amendment standards). What is more, unlike this case, the party seeking 22 to add a claim in Desertrain learned of the factual basis for the claim only one week before 23 the close of discovery and shortly before summary judgment briefing. Id. at 1152.

24 Even if the Court were to apply Rule 15 standards, it would deny CWT's request to 25 amend its complaint at this late hour in the litigation. As noted above, CWT had knowledge 26 of the actions underlying its potential conversion claim from the start of this litigation.
27 Additionally, CWT has amended its complaint twice. Not only did it fail to add this claim 28

1 to the amended complaints, but it removed a sentence potentially supporting conversion
2 liability against Carrigan. Compare Bridges Doc. 1 ¶ 101 (stating that Carrigan and DAS 3 were liable for converted tax credits), with Bridges Doc. 56 ¶ 113 (stating that only DAS 4 is liable for conversion).

5 Moreover, the amendment would prejudice Ker and Carrigan. A simple conversion 6 claim does not require knowledge of the underlying tort, but a claim for aiding and abetting 7 conversion does. Compare Case Corp. v. Gehrke, 91 P.3d 362, 365 (Ariz. Ct. App. 2004) 8 (“[C]onversion is the act of wrongful dominion or control over personal property that 9 interferes with another’s right to immediate possession of the personal property at the time 10 of the alleged conversion.”), with Greenfield Plaza Inv’rs LLC v. Stearns Bank, N.A., No.
11 CV 12-389-PHX-SRB, 2012 WL 13024089, at *10 (D. Ariz. Aug. 14, 2012) (A defendant 12 must know that the primary tortfeasor’s conduct constitutes a breach of duty to be liable 13 for aiding and abetting conversion). Requiring Ker and Carrigan to defend against a much 14 lower intent requirement at this late date in the case would cause prejudice that easily could 15 have been avoided had CWT pled conversion in its original or amended complaint. See 16 Doc. 165 at 10; see also Amerisource Bergen Corp. v. Dialysist West, Inc., 465 F.3d 946, 17 953 (9th Cir. 2006) (“Even though eight months of discovery remained, requiring the 18 parties to scramble and attempt to ascertain whether the [product purchased] was tainted, 19 would have unfairly imposed potentially high, additional litigation costs on [defendants] 20 that could have easily been avoided had [plaintiff] pursued its ‘tainted product theory’ in 21 its original complaint or reply.”).

22 The Court considers five factors to assess the propriety of a motion for leave to 23 amend under Rule 15: bad faith, undue delay, prejudice to the opposing party, futility of 24 amendment, and whether the plaintiff has previously amended the complaint. Johnson v.
25 Buckley, 356 F.3d 1067, 1077 (9th Cir. 2004). The Court would deny CWT’s request under 26 Rule 15 on the basis of undue delay and prejudice to the opposing party.

1                               2.       CWT’s Claim for Aiding and Abetting Conversion.

2               In its reply, CWT argues that the Court should grant summary judgment against Ker 3 and Carrigan for aiding and abetting RDX’s conversion of the tax credits. See Doc. 170 at 4 15. The Court does not address arguments made for the first time in reply. See Best 5 Western Int’l, Inc. v. AV Inn Assocs., No. CV-08-2274-PHX-DGC, 2010 WL 289895, at 7 Cir. 2008).<sup>5</sup>

8                               3.       Preclusion of Ker and Carrigan’s Arguments and Issues.

9               CWT argues that the Court should grant summary judgment on Ker and Carrigan’s 10 defenses that were stricken in the New York action because Ker and Carrigan are in privity 11 with RDX, and res judicata bars Ker and Carrigan from making arguments that RDX made 12 or could have made. Doc. 156 at 14. In the alternative, CWT argues that collateral estoppel 13 bars Ker and Carrigan from relitigating issues decided in the New York action. Id. at 20.

14               The Full Faith and Credit Act provides that a state’s judicial proceedings “shall have 15 the same full faith and credit in every court within the United States . . . as they have by 16 law or usage in the courts of such State . . . from which they are taken.” 28 U.S.C. § 1738.
17 In determining the res judicata and collateral estoppel consequences of a state court 18 judgment, federal courts apply the doctrines of the state where the judgment was rendered.
19 See Migra v. Warren City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 465 U.S. 75, 81 (1984).

20                               a.       Privity.

21               As a threshold question, the Court must determine whether Ker and Carrigan are in 22 privity with RDX and Danzik. See In re Shea, 132 N.E.2d 864, 875 (N.Y. 1956) (doctrine 23 of res judicata prevents those in privity with parties to an action from subsequently 24 relitigating any questions that were necessarily decided there in). CWT argues that as 25 directors and officers of RDX, Ker and Carrigan shared an “identity of interest and [a]

27               <sup>5</sup> In response to CWT’s motion, Ker and Carrigan also argue that CWT’s 28 “conversion-related claim” is precluded by the economic loss rule. See Doc. 165 at 13.
Because the Court will not consider CWT’s conversion claims [as opposed to aiding and abetting claim] and Ker and Carrigan did not cross move for summary judgment on CWT’s aiding and abetting conversion claim, the Court will not consider this argument.

1 close relationship with RDX.” Doc. 156 at 17. CWT also argues that Ker controlled RDX 2 and its conduct in the New York action in the months leading up to the contempt hearing.
3 Id. at 19.

4 Ker and Carrigan counter that neither of them “controlled” the New York litigation.
5 Doc. 165 at 16. Ker further argues that he approved payments involving the tax credit 6 funds only at the advice of other officers in the company, without knowledge of 7 impropriety. Id. Carrigan argues that he was not in control as he had left the company as 8 a director following the tax credit transactions and the results of the audit report which 9 questioned related party transactions like those RDX had with Danzik. Id.

10 For privity to exist under New York law, the interests of the nonparty must have 11 been represented in the prior proceeding. Green v. Santa Fe Indus., 514 N.E.2d 105, 114 12 (N.Y. 1987). Additionally, parties are in privity if the nonparty controlled the conduct of 13 the prior action to further his own interests. Id. The character and extent of the 14 involvement in the litigation is often a question of fact. Watts v. Swiss Bank Corp., 265 15 N.E.2d 739, 746 (N.Y. 1970). All the circumstances must be considered to determine 16 whether the participation amounted to sharing control of the prior litigation. Id.

17 CWT argues that the privity test for a corporation and its directors requires only an 18 identity of interests, and that courts find such an identity of interests because of the nature 19 of the corporate relationship. See Doc. 170 at 18. But under New York law a “judgment 20 against a corporation bars later litigation on the same cause of action by an officer, director 21 or shareholder of the corporation if the individual participated in and effectively controlled 22 the earlier case.” U.S. Sec. & Futures Corp., No. 00 Civ. 2322 RMBTHK, 2002 WL 23 34191506, at *4 (S.D. N.Y. May 13, 2002) (emphasis added) (finding privity where parties 24 to a contract dispute are identified together in the contract and share identical rights and 25 obligations under the contract); Hellman v. Hoenig, 989 F. Supp. 532, 532 (S.D.N.Y. 1998) 26 (finding privity where interests were identical and by virtue of his role as CEO, Chairman 27 of the Board, and majority shareholder, the officer exercised control over the prior 28 litigation); Sterling Doubleday Enter. v. Marro, 238 A.D.2d 502, 503 (N.Y. App. Div.

1 1997) (“[T]he defendants, who together held offices of president, vice-president, secretary, 2 and treasurer of [the corporation] and constituted a majority of the three shareholders and 3 directors of [the corporation], which is a closely-held corporation, were in privity with [the 4 corporation] and had control of the litigation that resulted in default judgment.”).

5 Given this law, the Court cannot conclude that privity exists simply because Ker 6 and Carrigan were directors or officers of RDX. CWT must show that Ker and Carrigan 7 controlled the litigation. CWT cites an affidavit filed by Ker in the New York action in 8 which Ker stated that he worked with Danzik on a nearly daily basis from mid-2009 to the 9 present and expended significant time defending the New York action. See Doc. 161-6 at 10 3. The Court cannot conclude that this document indisputably establishes that Ker, much 11 less Carrigan, controlled the earlier litigation. Therefore, the Court cannot find privity of 12 the parties at the summary judgment stage.

13 b. Res Judicata or Collateral Estoppel of Issues.

14 Even if the Court were to find privity, it would not preclude litigation of all of Ker 15 and Carrigan’s arguments. CWT argues that res judicata should preclude Ker and Carrigan 16 from making the following arguments: “(1) the CWT Parties defrauded RDX into entering 17 into the UPA; (2) RDX was entitled to retain the tax credits, either because of the CWT 18 Parties’ alleged fraud or because of the terms of the UPA; (3) RDX and Dennis did not 19 convert the tax credits; (4) RDX was not required to keep the tax credits it received in a 20 segregated account, or RDX was permitted to spend the tax credits upon receipt; and (5) the 21 CWT parties’ tort claims are barred by the economic loss doctrine.” Doc. 156 at 14.

22 As previously noted by the Court, res judicata is not applicable because it only 23 precludes whole claims or defenses from being relitigated. See Doc. 139; see also Williams
24 v. City of Yonkers, 160 A.D.3d 1017, 1018 (N.Y. App. Div. 2018). (“The doctrine of res 25 judicata bars the litigation of a claim or defense if, in a former litigation between the parties, 26 or those in privity with them, in which there was a final conclusion, the subject matter and 27 the causes of action are identical or substantially identical.”)

1 Collateral estoppel, which precludes the relitigation of issues when parties in a 2 subsequent suit are in privity, is the applicable doctrine for the first four issues identified 3 by CWT. Collateral estoppel bars relitigation when “(1) the issues in both proceedings are 4 identical, (2) the issue in the prior proceeding was actually litigated and decided, (3) there 5 was a full and fair opportunity to litigate in the prior proceeding, and (4) the issue 6 previously litigated was necessary to support a valid and final judgment on the merits.” 7 Conason v. Megan Holding, LLC, 29 N.E. 3d 215, 224 (NY Ct App. 2015). In cases where 8 the plaintiff uses collateral estoppel offensively, the trial court is granted broad discretion 9 to determine when it should be applied. Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore, 99 S. Ct. 645, 651
10 (1979); Mario Valente Collezioni, Ltd. v. AAK Ltd., No. 02 Civ. 0099 (RPP), 2004 WL 11 724690 (S.D. N.Y. March 26, 2004). The majority view is that collateral estoppel based 12 on a default judgment is undesirable. See Artmatic USA Cosmetics, Div. of Arthur Matney 13 Co. v. Maybelline Co., a Div. of Schering Plough, Inc., 906 F. Supp. 850, 856 (D. Ariz.
14 1995).

15 Plaintiffs argue that collateral estoppel applies because (1) in the New York decision 16 to grant the CWT Parties’ attachment order, Justice Kornreich stated that “there is no 17 question of fact” that the tax credits “either belong to the CWT Parties or the federal 18 government”; (2) in the contempt decision, she stated that RDX and Danzik “indisputably” 19 and “wrongfully withheld” the tax credits; and (3) in her decision granting the CWT 20 Parties’ motion for default judgment, she stated that there is “no question of fact that the 21 tax credits belong to the CWT Parties” and that the “CWT Parties’ right to the tax credits 22 under the UPA is clear.” Doc. 156 at 21-22.

23 Issues determined in the attachment order will not be barred by collateral estoppel.
24 See 4 C.J.S. Appeal and Error § 204 Attachment (2018) (noting that attachment orders are 25 not final). And the statement that RDX and Danzik wrongfully withheld the tax credits 26 was not essential to the New York contempt order, which found Danzik in contempt for 27 violating the Attachment Order. See Dennis Doc. 60-22 at 11 (“While so many of Danzik’s 28 actions are problematic, only those actions constituting violations of this court’s

1 Attachment Order and TRO may be predicates for holding him in contempt.”). And the 2 issues decided in the default judgment were not actually litigated.

3 c. Conclusion.

4 In sum the Court concludes that CWT has failed to show it is entitled to summary 5 judgment on whether privity exists between the New York action parties and Ker and 6 Carrigan. Further, res judicata and collateral estoppel are not applicable to the issues CWT 7 seeks to preclude.

8 4. Ker’s Defamation Claims.

9 CWT argues that the Court should grant summary judgment on Ker’s counterclaims 10 for defamation because statements regarding Ker were made in relation to litigation.
11 Doc. 156 at 25. Ker has provided no response and no additional information regarding 12 where the publication of the defamatory statements occurred. The Court is still unable to 13 determine what choice of law applies. See Doc. 119 at 7. CWT argues that under New 14 York, Arizona, and Canadian law, Ker’s claim fails because each jurisdiction recognizes a 15 litigation privilege to defame. See Doc. 156 at 26-28; see also Green Acres Trust v.
16 London, 688 P.2d 617, 621 (Ariz. 1984) (recognizing that Arizona has applied an absolute 17 privilege to defame in connection with judicial proceedings to protect parties, lawyers, 18 witnesses and jurors); Monument Mining Ltd. v. Balendran Chong & Bodi, 2012 BCSC 19 1769, available at <http://canlii.ca/t.fv05h> (“[P]rivilege applies to communications which 20 take place during, incidental to and in the processing and furtherance of judicial or quasi-21 judicial proceedings[.]”); Front, Inc. v. Khalil, 28 N.E.3d 15, 20(N.Y. 2015) (“[W]e have 22 held that absolute immunity for liability for defamation exists for oral or written statements 23 made by attorneys in connection with a proceeding before a court ‘when such words and 24 writings are material and pertinent to the questions involved.’”)

25 CWT points to declarations made by members of CWT that communications were 26 made either in furtherance of settlement negotiations or at an attorney’s instruction in 27 preparation for settlement or the contempt hearing. See Doc. 156 at 27; 157 ¶¶ 52-53.
28 CWT also points to statements in Ker’s deposition that he suspected defamatory statements

1 were made in relation to pending litigation. See Doc. 156 at 27. Although one of the pages 2 for this cite is missing, Ker states that the communication and statements alleged in his 3 complaint would have been made in connection with ongoing litigation. See Doc. 161-1 4 at 11-13; see also Doc. 99 ¶¶ 51-52. Ker has provided no response to these arguments. If 5 Ker is admitting the statements were made in relation to pending litigation, there is no 6 genuine issue of fact as to whether Ker can maintain his defamation counterclaims. The 7 Court will grant CWT's motion for summary judgment with respect to Ker's defamation 8 counterclaims.

9 5. Conclusion.

10 The Court will deny CWT's motion in part and grant it in part. The Court will deny 11 CWT's motion on a conversion claim against Ker and Carrigan. The Court will also deny 12 summary judgment on Ker and Carrigan's privity with RDX and Danzik for purposes of 13 collateral estoppel and res judicata. The Court will grant summary judgment on Ker's 14 defamation counterclaims.

15 B. Ker and Carrigan's Motion.

16 Ker and Carrigan cross-move for summary judgment on the following claims: 17 tortious interference with contract, breach of trust, breach of fiduciary duty, and aiding and 18 abetting breach fiduciary duty and breach of trust. See Doc. 165 at 17.<sup>6</sup>

19 1. Tortious Interference with Contract.

20 Ker and Carrigan argue that only strangers or third-party beneficiaries to a contract 21 can be liable for tortious interference, and, as directors and officers of RDX, they were 22 neither. See Doc. 165 at 19. CWT does not respond.

23 Tortious interference with contract involves an individual "intentionally and 24 improperly interfering with the performance of a contract (except a contract to marry) 25 between another and a third person by inducing or otherwise causing the third person not 26 to perform the contract." See Restatement (Second) Torts § 766. As a rule, a party cannot

27
28 <sup>6</sup> In response, CWT argues that Ker and Carrigan failed to file a Local Rule 56.1 statement of undisputed material facts in support of their cross motion. See Doc. 170 at 21. The Court finds Ker and Carrigan have filed the necessary document as Doc. 166.

1 be liable for tortious interference with its own contract. See Wells Fargo Bank v. Ariz.
2 Laborers, Teamsters & Cement Masons Local No. 395 Pension Trust Fund, 38 P.3d 12, 32 3 (Ariz. 2002).

4 Ker and Carrigan state that they are directors and officers of RDX and deny that 5 they are trustees of the tax credit funds under the UPA. But they provide no record cites 6 or evidence that conclusively establishes whether they were parties to the UPA. The Court 7 will not grant summary judgment on this claim because there is an issue of fact as to 8 whether Ker and Carrigan were parties to the UPA and can be liable for interfering with 9 the performance of the UPA.

10 2. Breach of Trust and Aiding and Abetting Breach of Trust.

11 Ker and Carrigan argue that they cannot be liable for breach of trust because the 12 UPA makes no reference to an express trust, a trustor, or a beneficiary, they are not 13 referenced in a trust capacity, and no factual or legal basis exists for asserting a trust claim.
14 Doc. 165 at 19. CWT responds that the New York action has already determined that the 15 identified language of the UPA imposes an obligation on RDX to segregate the tax credits 16 for CWT, and such an obligation can create a trust without the express use of the word 17 “trust.” See Doc. 170 at 22-23; see also Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 2. CWT also 18 points to language in the UPA that states the tax credit money “shall be allocated and 19 distributed to the parties.” See Doc. 170 at 23 (citing Dennis Doc. 60-7 § 2.3); see also In 20 re Einhorn, 59 B.R. 179, 184 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. 1986) (“[T]he crucial factor in determining 21 whether a trust relationship is created in an agreement is the presence of a duty to segregate 22 funds purportedly ‘held in trust.’”).

23 CWT has identified evidence that creates a genuine issue of fact on whether Ker and 24 Carrigan were required to hold funds in trust for CWT parties. Ker and Carrigan reply that 25 they are not parties to the UPA and did not intend to create a fiduciary relationship, so a 26 trust could not have been created. See Doc. 173 at 8. The Court is unable to reconcile this 27 position with Ker and Carrigan’s assertion that they are parties to the contract under their 28

1 tortious interference argument. Thus, the Court finds that a dispute of fact exists and will 2 not grant summary judgment on these claims.

3                   3. Breach of Fiduciary Duty and Aiding and Abetting.

4           Ker and Carrigan argue that their relationship with CWT has only been contractual 5 and, as a matter of law, they never owed a fiduciary duty to CWT. See Doc. 165 at 20.
6 Their argument relies primarily on case law asserting that commercial contract 7 relationships do not automatically create fiduciary relationships. See Urias v. PCS Health 8 Sys., 118 P.3d 29, 35 (Ariz. Ct. App. 2005) (collecting cases); id. (parties must intend to 9 create a fiduciary relationship). But CWT argues that RDX held the tax credits in trust, 10 and the parties to the agreement owed fiduciary duties as a result of the trust relationship.
11 See Doc. 170 at 24; see also In re Oakland Living Trust, No. 1 CA-CV 16-0073, 2017 WL 12 2544836, at *2 (Ariz. Ct. App. June 1, 2017) (noting a trustee owes a fiduciary duty to a 13 trust beneficiaries). Because an issue of fact remains about whether the contract created a 14 trust for the tax credits, there is also an issue of fact as to whether the parties owed fiduciary 15 duties to CWT.

16                   C. Elizabeth’s Motion for Summary Judgment.

17           Within Ker and Carrigan’s motion, Elizabeth moves for summary judgment on 18 CWT’s claims for constructive trust and accounting. See Doc. 165 at 18.

19                   1. Constructive Trust.

20           Elizabeth argues that CWT’s claim for a constructive trust is not an independent 21 cause of action but an equitable remedy the Court may impose as necessary. See Doc. 165 22 at 20. A constructive trust is an equitable remedy that a court may impose “to compel one 23 who unfairly holds a property interest to convey that interest to another to whom it justly 24 belongs.” Cal X-Tra v. W.V.S.V. Holdings, LLC, 276 P.3d 11, 43 (Ariz. Ct. App. 2012).
25 Courts often “impose a constructive trust when title to property has been obtained through 26 actual fraud, misrepresentation, concealment, undue influence, duress, or similar means, or 27 if there has been a breach of fiduciary duty.” See id.

1 CWT cites to one unpublished Arizona Court of Appeals decision to support its 2 assertion that “constructive trust” is an independent cause of action. See Doc. 170 at 24.
3 The Court disagrees. In Grantahm v. Simms, the Arizona Court of Appeals impliedly 4 recognized an equitable claim for constructive trust but did not actually provide elements 5 for the claim and even indicated that a constructive trust was something to be imposed if 6 there is a breach of fiduciary duty. See No. 2 CA-CV 2015-0107, 2016 WL 4761318, at *3 7 (Ariz. Ct. App. Sept. 13, 2016) (citing Turely v. Ethington, 146 P.3d 1282, 1285 (Ariz. Ct.
8 App. 2006)). Further, although characterized as an independent claim, the court of appeals 9 reviewed the trial court’s imposition of a constructive trust. Id. at *5.

10 The Court will grant Elizabeth’s motion for summary judgment with respect to 11 CWT’s constructive trust claim. This decision does not affect the Court’s ability to impose 12 a constructive trust as an equitable remedy for CWT’s other claims.

13 2. Accounting.

14 Elizabeth argues that an accounting is inappropriate here because CWT has already 15 hired a forensic accounting expert who has traced $1 million of the tax credit funds to 16 Elizabeth. Doc. 165 at 21. CWT argues that it is entitled to an equitable accounting 17 because the funds were held in trust and an accounting is an equitable remedy granted to 18 trust beneficiaries. See Doc. 170 at 25. Further, Danzik used a complex web of accounts 19 to convert the tax credits, and CWT needs a full accounting to determine just how much 20 made its way to various accounts. Id.

21 An equitable accounting is a proper cause of action where the “accounts between 22 parties are of such a complicated nature that only a court of equity can satisfactorily unravel 23 them.” In re U.S. Fin. Sec. Litg., 609 F.2d 411, 417 (9th Cir. 1979) (citing Dairy Queen, 24 Inc. v. Wood, 369 U.S. 469, 478 (1962) (internal quotations omitted)). “The essence of the 25 right of action is the close interrelations between the parties, akin to a fiduciary status.” 26 Mollohan v. Christy, 294 P.2d 375, 376 (Ariz. 1956).

27 An equitable accounting may be necessary if the Court ultimately concludes that a 28 breach of trust occurred. Further, the Court agrees that the complex nature of Danzik’s

1 accounts may warrant an accounting. The Court will deny summary judgment on the 2 accounting claim.

3 3. Conclusion.

4 The Court will the motion for summary judgment on CWT's claims for breach of 5 trust, breach of fiduciary duties, aiding and abetting breaches of trust and fiduciary duties, 6 and accounting claims. The Court will grant summary judgment on CWT's constructive 7 trust claim because it is not an independent claim.

8 D. CWT's Sur-Reply and Ker and Carrigan's Motion to Strike.

9 On October 3, 2018, CWT filed "Reply in Further Support of CWT Parties' Motion 10 to Deem the Second Amended Complaint Amended to Include a Conversion Claim Against 11 Ker and Carrigan." Doc. 174. In response, Ker and Carrigan filed a motion to strike the 12 filing as an unauthorized sur-reply. Doc. 175.

13 Under Local Rules of Civil Procedure 7.2, parties are entitled to file one reply 14 motion. If a party wants to file a sur-reply, it must seek leave of court. See, e.g., Int'l Air 15 Med. Servs. Inc. v. Triple-S Salud Inc., No. CV-15-00149-PHX-DGC, 2015 WL 8602495, 16 at *3 (D. Ariz. Dec. 14, 2015). CWT filed it reply after Ker and Carrigan's reply to CWT's 17 response to Ker and Carrigan's motion for summary judgment. Because CWT did not have 18 the right to a sur-reply and did not obtain leave, the Court will not consider its reply. See
19 Punchard v. U.S. Bureau of Land Mgmt., No. CV-17-00148-TUC-JGZ, 2017 WL
20 4681904, at * 1 n.1 (D. Ariz. June 26, 2017).

21 CWT argues that within its response it filed a motion for leave to amend its 22 complaint. Doc. 176 at 2. But the document only indicates that it is a reply and response 23 to the motions for summary judgment. See Doc. 170. Indeed, the argument that CWT's 24 complaint should be amended is buried in its summary judgment reply argument. The 25 motion was not properly filed, and CWT was not entitled to reply. The Court will strike 26 CWT's sur-reply in support of its leave to amend.
